

Circular Walks based on the T50.

New Works circuit (alternative starts at Horsehay and Lawley) longer version, using the T50 and the Hutchison Way. 5.8 miles .

This slightly longer version gives the opportunity of visiting the Smalley Hill nature reserve and the whole of New Works village

<https://osmaps.ordnancesurvey.co.uk/route/4835449/New-Works-Circular-Longer-Version>

A turn by turn version on RunGo is at <https://routes.rungoapp.com/route/z4ew5QQiBO>

Directions:

Start at the car park on New Works Lane (where the Hutchison Way crosses). Go along the stoney path towards Short Woods Keep left as the footpath forks. After a short while, the T50 will come up from your right, From this point follow the T50 up hill and pass the Smalley Hill nature reserve to go into and through New Works, then down the Trundle.

Still on the T50, go over the golf course, around Horsehay Pool and down to Morrisons in Lawley. Keep on the T50 until you reach the Wrekin Way - where the T50 turns left BUT instead of turning left on Wrekin Way - turn right then take the left turn onto the Ironbridge Way then left (picking up the T50 anticlockwise) to cross (or go by the side of if you want to look at it to see the arch) the tramway bridge, then follow the T50 back to Wrekin Way .

Turn right towards Arleston Lane. you are now on the Hutchison Way. Follow the tarmac path all the way up to Arleston Lane, cross straight over and follow the dirt track down to the bottom of the hill - then take the left fork (signed Hutchison Way), follow the footpath around the residential caravan park until it emerges onto Dawley Road. Turn left and walk about 50 yards , then turn right into a field (signposted "Public Footpath") and walk up the path at the left hand edge of the field - it emerges on New Works lane opposite the car park where you started.